Before her lobotomy, a vivacious Rosemary and big brother John F. Kennedy hung out together in 1935

Rosemary was kept hidden by her father, Joe (below), for 20 years

BRAIN SURGERY DESTROYED ROSEMARY KENNEDY

Evil Joe stashed tragic daughter in an institution — AND NEVER TOLD HIS WIFE & KIDS

RUTHLESS Joseph Kennedy had doctors turn his beautiful daughter Rosemary into a vegetable because he feared her sexual antics would tarnish the family name!

Now, 70 years after Rosemary was subjected to a cruel lobotomy, GLOBE reveals the terrible truth about President John F. Kennedy's hidden sister!

As a result of her father's vicious and controlling ways, Rosemary spent the last 56 years of her life living in a small apartment in a tiny Midwestern town, hardly able to speak and having to relearn such basic functions as walking and feeding herself!

She was The Missing Kennedy, victim of a lobotomy ordered by her Nazi-sympathizer father in 1941, when she was just 23 years old.

She went under the surgeon's knife as a vivacious and energetic young woman. She came out of the operation unrecognizable, and

MERRY WIDOW KATHIE LEE TAKES OFF WEDDING RING!

JUST seven weeks after the mysterious death of beloved husband Frank Gifford, Kathie Lee has ditched her wedding ring!

"It's really quite shocking," says one insider. "It happened awfully fast, and no one was expecting it."

As you can see in GLOBE's photo, Kathie Lee took off the ring symbolizing her 29-year marriage to the former professional football player, who died Aug. 9. And pals say the man-hungry widow is ready to date again!

"Kathie Lee thinks Frank would want her to fall in love again," an insider says. "She is a strong woman, but she would be safer not being alone." And she also "thinks Frank would really want the love of his life to be cared for in her older floor of a bedroom in their Greenwich, Conn., home. Frank left a $10 million estate to Kathie Lee, his third wife, and gave her control over what is given to their children. Two of his kids from his first marriage, to Maxine Ewart — daughter Victoria Gifford, 58, and son Jeffrey Gifford, 63 — got $500,000 each. Car-wreck survivor Kyle Gifford, 60, received $1 million in trust.

What Really Killed Him?

Frank officially died of natural causes, believed to be a heart attack, but GLOBE's experts maintain an autopsy was needed to determine what actually killed him.

Hall of Famer Frank was one of the grittiest and greatest pro football players of his era. But at home, Kathie Lee ruled with an iron fist — especially after Frank was caught in a steamy tryst with former stewardess Suzen Johnson in a Manhattan hotel in 1997.

"Kathie Lee was totally humiliated and remained bitter," says a friend.

And GLOBE's insider adds: "You have to wonder if all that mess and the bitterness played a role in Kathie Lee getting rid of her wedding ring so quickly. I guess we'll never know."

years. She is open to the idea of falling in love," adds the insider.

Kathie Lee's decision to remove her wedding band came after a touching Sept. 20 tribute by his old team, the New York Giants.

The Today co-anchor and her kids, Cassidy, 22, and Cody, 25, attended the ceremony, marked by a moment of silence before the game. Choked-up Kathie Lee recalls, "You realize millions of people liked him, and he really was a legend."

As GLOBE reported, the exact cause of Frank's death is still shrouded in mystery — because there was no autopsy.

His sudden, unexpected end came one week before his 85th birthday. Kathie Lee found the ex-TV sportscaster on the was quickly stashed away from public view — not even seeing her own mother for 20 long years!

Sister Paulus Taylor, a nun, spent most of her life caring for the brain-damaged young woman at an institution in Wisconsin called the St. Coletta School for Exceptional Children.

“It’s very sad,” says Sister Paulus’ niece, Elizabeth Koehler-Pentacoff, 57, in her newly published book, The Missing Kennedy.

The third of nine children born to Joe and Rose Kennedy, Rosemary was very close to her older brother, John, who was destined to become president in 1960 and die by an assassin’s bullet on Nov. 22, 1963.

Rosemary struggled in school as she grew, but otherwise was a normal, attractive and very loving girl who kept a detailed diary. It described the dances she had attended and the people she had met while living in London after her father was appointed U.S. ambassador to Britain in 1938.

Hidden shame

But as she entered her 20s, Rosemary exhibited mood swings. Her parents put her in a convent but she would sneak away at night to meet young men when the nuns were asleep. Her father, who carried on a tawdry affair with actress Gloria Swanson, was furious when he found out what Rosemary had been doing.

Joe sought some way to control Rosemary and, finally, without even telling Rose, he had his young daughter undergo to a new procedure meant to allow a patient to live a “peaceful and productive life” — by removing the frontal lobes of her brain.

After the botched operation, Rosemary could not walk or talk or even control her bodily functions. Joe shunted her off to a home called Craig House, north of New York City, where she remained for eight years and where she suffered sexual abuse.

Her siblings, and even her own mother, had no idea what had become of Rosemary — and were afraid to ask!

In 1949, Rosemary was moved to St. Coletta in Jefferson, Wis. It was another 12 years, however, before Rose and her other children would learn what had become of Rosemary.

“Joe had a stroke in December 1961, and St. Coletta had to contact someone else, so they reached out to Mrs. Kennedy,” Koehler-Pentacoff says.

Shortly thereafter, Rose flew to Wisconsin to visit her tragic daughter. Rosemary met her mom at the airport in Milwaukee, and ran to her.

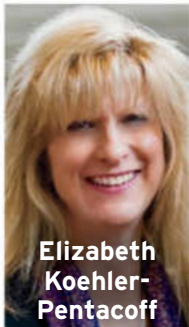

“Mrs. Kennedy opened her arms in greeting as Rosie raised her arms, but the reunion quickly took an ominous turn,” Koehler-Pentacoff writes.

“Rosie beat her mother’s chest with her fists, shrieking with a

TRAGIC INNOCENT ENDURED BARBARIC SURGERY

WHAT the ruthless Kennedy patriarch did to Rosemary Kennedy was downright insane!

But, weirdly, the notion of curing mental illness by chopping out a chunk of brain actually won a Nobel Prize in 1949 – eight years after the innocent young woman endured the barbaric operation!

“Lobotomies came about because there were NO drugs to treat mental illness at that time,” says Dr. Stuart Fischer, who has a degree in psychology from Yale University.

“The frontal lobe gives us the intellectual ability to reason.

“The idea was that removing the frontal lobes would induce childhood through surgery, and give the patient time to mature correctly afterward.”

That bizarre theory gave Rosemary’s father the opportunity to be free of his challenging daughter – by reducing her to a drooling zombie! Docs cut into her temple and then severed the fibers connecting her front lobe to the rest of the brain, taking away her ability to do even basic things.

“The procedure was an utter failure,” adds Dr. Fischer. “Patients were stripped of their personalities and ability to think. Today it would be considered a crime!”

primordial ‘AAAARRRRRCK!’”

“It was her saying, ‘Where have you been for 20 years?’” Koehler-Pentacoff tells GLOBE. “She was angry and upset.

“However, after that first meeting she did not react with anger or sadness, and was happy to see all of her family members visit her.

“They embraced her — and within a few years she was able to learn how to socialize and make her way in the town. Then she started traveling and visited all of their homes along with my aunt.”

Blending in

Once her evil father was out of the picture — he died in 1969 — Rosemary was allowed more freedom, and even joined her siblings at the family compound in Hyannis Port, Mass.

On those visits, Koehler-

Pentacoff says, Rose would often look at her daughter, shake her head sadly, and say, “Oh, what did we do to you, Rosemary...”

Rosemary spent her days swimming, taking twice-daily walks and watching television. Rose also had an indoor pool built on the campus, and Rosemary enjoyed putting on a miniature golf course right outside her door.

Rosemary died on Jan. 7, 2005, at the age of 86. The real tragedy of her life, Koehler-Pentacoff says, is that Rosemary probably only suffered from a learning disability.

“They said she was ‘mentally retarded,’ but she wasn’t,” Koehler-Pentacoff adds. “She was probably just dyslexic. People didn’t know anything about learning disabilities.

KATE PIC

PLAYBOY Prince Harry is finally settling down — and William's beautiful wife, Kate, has chosen his royal bride!

"It came down to a Battle of the Blondes — Chelsy Davy and Cressida Bonas," says a friend of the 31-year-old party-loving bachelor.

"The women are gorgeous and he has had long relationships with both. Kate has been secretly vetting the pair for months to decide who will make his perfect wife. And GLOBE can exclusively reveal her choice.

"Chelsy's The One," Kate confided to a palace insider. "He can't live without her."

Harry and Chelsy, 29, dated off and on for seven years until 2011. They even "got hitched" in a secret ceremony during a romantic trip to Africa in 2008, say sources.

Drunkeness

"In front of an African preacher and a witness, they went through a commitment ceremony," says a source.

"When they got back to Britain, Harry was telling pals he couldn't wait to marry in a proper church ceremony with full regal splendor."

Chelsy, whose wealthy family owns a safari company, didn't like being in the spotlight — and got tired of the Prince's public drunken antics.

Kate tried to intervene after an embarrassing display in a Croatian nightclub the year the couple split. But Harry didn't listen. He started dating the aristocratic Cressida but was caught in a naked romp in Las Vegas in a sensational scandal that involved a hooker, cocaine and a sex tape.

"The royals went berserk — but it was Kate who finally got through to him," says the source.

"He trusts her more than anyone, and they spent hours talking about his future. She managed to tame him, to end his wild partying ways.

Last year when Harry broke up with Cressida, a British-born actress, dancer and model, he complained to Kate that he "would never find true love." But she kept urging him to follow his heart.

"Finally, it all came together — and Chelsy wins!"

The lawyer turned DJ has "everything going for her," says the friend. "She's beautiful, smart and has a strong streak of independence to hold her own in the royal marriage.

"Kate questioned whether either woman was up to the rigors of royal life. And although Chelsy has confessed some fears about royal life, Kate managed to calm them all."

Former Army captain Harry admits he wants to settle down — especially since the births of his niece and nephew,

"It would be great to have someone next to me to share the pressure," Harry said earlier this year. "And I would love to have kids right now, but there's a process that one has to go through."

And insiders say that process has started.

"Get ready for an engagement announcement soon, then another royal wedding at Westminster Abbey next spring," says the palace insider.

HILLARY & OPRAH: FAT'S IN THE FIRE!

FRANTIC Hillary Clinton, 67, desperately needs Oprah Winfrey to help her sinking presidential campaign — but the TV mogul has two words for the Democrat: fat chance!

Oprah hates Hillary's guts and has zero intention of endorsing Hillary, insiders say — and it's all because of a cruel joke about Oprah's weight!

GLOBE has learned that White House aides to Hillary's husband, former President Bill Clinton, 69, derisively referred to the famously weight-challenged Oprah as “the fat lady” in e-mails — and she is LIVID!

The revelation is exposed in author Edward Klein's upcoming book Unlikeable: The Problem with Hillary.

The nasty remark surfaced in a 1999 e-mail exchange between Clinton aides after Oprah decided not to back the President's initiatives.

Staffers joked that “the fat lady hasn't sung yet” in the subject line of one memo, Klein writes.

The author says Oprah “had sources in the Clinton White House who told her about the offending ‘fat lady’ memo,” which was sent to Clinton insiders Elena Kagan — now a Supreme Court justice — and Hillary's senior policy advisor Neera Tanden.

Further fueling the star's anger, “None of the recipients of the memos thought to object to the slur against Oprah,” Klein writes.

Hillary and Bill's fingerprints weren't on the memo, but a source says: “In Oprah's opinion, members of the Clinton administration wouldn't have used phrases like that if they thought the President and First Lady would find it offensive.”

“It was one of the many slights that distanced Oprah from Hillary,” adds the insider.

“Oprah always kept her at arm's length. I'm sure Hillary will make an approach to get Oprah's support ... but I'm just as sure she won't get it.”

SPIELBERG TEACHING CLINTON TO ACT!

ICEBERG Hillary Clinton is SO unlikeable that her ex-Prez husband arranged for Hollywood genius Steven Spielberg to give his wife acting lessons so she can fake it!

After the former Secretary of State's popularity plunged, Bill Clinton ordered Hillary to repackage herself as a "strong, but lovable, older woman."

She bristled and snapped, "I get $250,000 to make a speech, and these Hollywood jackasses are going to tell ME how to do it," author Ed Klein reveals. But poll numbers finally made her cave in.

Hillary made tapes for Spielberg to scrutinize "her facial expressions, hand gestures, the pitch of her voice, and her use of eye contact," the author writes.

Steven sent back ideas that Hillary trashed. Her popularity is STILL sinking like a rock.

Says Klein, "Hillary Clinton did not take kindly to criticism, let alone constant criticism. It made her defensive and angry."

CARLY'S FREAKY FACE!

Plastic surgeons dish on Fiorina's changing look

2014

"THIS is the mother lode of drastic and unattractive change," Dr. Placik says. "Her brows appear so high, they seem the result of a forehead lift!"

2010

"HER overfilled cheeks run right into the sides of her nose," says Dr. Back. "Looks completely unnatural."

2004

"FIORINA'S face looks blanched – suggesting chemical peels or bleaching," according to Dr. Placik.

1998

"HER upper and lower eyelids show no crow's feet or frown lines – attributable to Botox," says Dr. Placik.

1972

"SHE has a pleasant, balanced face with nothing that draws the eye in a negative way," says Dr. Back.

BEFORE front-runner Donald Trump squared off against Carly Fiorina in a recent televised Republican presidential debate, the popular mogul invited America to "look at that face!"

So we did – and what we discovered was shocking! Top doctors told GLOBE the 61-year-old candidate has been under the knife so many times she's now the poster girl for plastic surgery!

The former Hewlett-Packard CEO's looks have "changed almost as much as her position on the issues," a political insider says. "Fiorina the candidate is completely different from the fresh-faced kid in her high school yearbook."

And noted cosmetic surgeons Dr. Lyle Back and Dr. Otto Placik, who have not treated Carly, agree. They've analyzed her photos and track the long string of renovations she has undergone trying to put her best face forward!

JAMES CAAN CAU DEATH MYSTERY

GODFATHER star James Caan is caught up in the mysterious case of a young man's baffling death!

After GLOBE ripped the lid off a long-suppressed coroner's report, a top Los Angeles private eye is demanding that police reopen the 22-year-old investigation.

"Detectives cleared James Caan, who was at the peak of his popularity then, but maybe he got preferential treatment by star-struck cops," says former Chicago policeman-turned-Hollywood private investigator Paul Huebl. "It's crucial to reopen this case and let a new set of eyes interpret the evidence."

Caan claimed he was snoozing in an eighth-floor Wilshire Blvd. apartment, miles from his wife and child in Bel Air, when strapping 25-year-old actor Mark Schwartz plummeted to his death outside the building in the wee hours of Sept. 18, 1993.

Caan, 54 at the time, was hauled in for questioning by the LAPD but was freed the same day and was soon absolved of any wrongdoing. The actor said he'd been using the apartment for "peace and quiet" to read scripts.

Lawmen initially considered Schwartz's bizarre death a homicide — but ultimately concluded it was an accident.

Now, GLOBE has uncovered

a coroner's report that's never been seen publicly before. And the document paints a suspicious portrait of Caan's involvement!

First, when cops arrived at the scene, Caan, who rose to fame playing Mafia killer Sonny Corleone in The Godfather, barred investigators from entering his apartment.

"The room is not available ... because of the occupant holding off police," wrote the coroner's investigator. "They will enact a warrant and force entry if necessary."

Before Caan let police inside, the report says investigators spied "bare furnishings, narcotics and paraphernalia, along with a 9 mm handgun."

And the report states neighbors

Schwartz's body was found outside Caan's apartment building early in the morning heard "multiple shots and scuffling" coming from Caan's apartment between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m.

Meanwhile, Schwartz was last seen by the building doorman entering the lobby elevator right around that time. Moments after he would have arrived at Caan's

Godfather star wouldn't let cops into his apartment AFTER PAL'S BODY WAS FOUND

— OFFICIAL REPORT

CAAN'S HIDEAWAY

The eighth-floor balcony of the Wilshire Boulevard apartment where James Caan claims to have been sleeping when Schwartz died place, the doorman heard a thump outside. Schwartz's body was discovered about three hours later.

Schwartz's father, Arnold, says police informed him that Caan, now 75, didn't answer the door when they arrived.

"I was told he had taken a sedative and that's why he slept through my son pounding on the door and their knocks as well," Arnold tells GLOBE. "They said a locksmith had to open the door for them."

What's more, the coroner's investigator notes there were "peculiar parallel abrasions to the left side of (Schwartz's) abdomen that I could not account for in the fall."

A private investigator who reviewed the coroner's report for GLOBE says it's possible those abrasions were sustained during the scuffle heard by neighbors.

Arnold Schwartz says the coroner's report "clearly raises more questions than answers."

Veteran investigator Huebl agrees.

"If the cops saw a gun, did they process it to see if it had been recently fired, and did anyone look for spent cartridges inside the apartment or outside near the victim's body?" he asks. "Did they check Caan's hands for gunshot residue? Was this a 'jump or I'll shoot you' kind of situation? A homicide investigation should never be closed. Every death case must be worked as if it's murder until there's reason to categorize it as an accident or suicide.

"A lot has changed for crime fighters in the past two decades, so modern science may find new avenues to explore. There are serious questions that need answers. It's not too late to solve this case."

Here are 10 things you didn't know about the 56-year-old actress, who once played Frank Sinatra's wife, and went from learning How to Get Away with Murder on ABC to starring as L.A. County Hospital ER doc Dr. Leanne Rorish on CBS's Code Black.

10 THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT MARCIA GAY HARDEN

1. Playing Verna in 1990's Miller's Crossing was Marcia's breakout film role – but the dirt-poor actress still had to work catering to jobs.

2. Her dad, brother and ex-hubby were all named Thaddeus. She says, "I should have lain down on a couch and talked to Freud maybe?"

3. She played Ava Gardner (below) in a 1992 CBS miniseries co-starring Philip Casnoff as Frank Sinatra.

OSCAR STAR!

4. As a kid, military brat Marcia lived in Japan, Greece, Germany and all over the U.S.

5. After being nominated for a Best Supporting Actress

Oscar in 2000, her Navy captain dad suggested she "wear something champagne-colored and strapless" to the Academy Award ceremonies. She wore burgundy and won for playing painter Lee Krasner in Pollock!

6. "I'm really frustrated that I wasn't in Harry Potter," she admits.

7. Marcia chilled out with "incense, yoga and music" after her Tony Award-winning performances in the 2009 Broadway play God of Carnage.

DANIEL CRAIG IS BOOZIEST BOND EVER!

DANIEL Craig doesn't mind if his vodka martinis aren't shaken or stirred when he's playing superspy James Bond – just as long as there are a lot of them!

A recent study determined Daniel's 007 knocks back 20 drinks per flick, nearly double the amount of the original Bond, Sean Connery, who downed about 11 per movie in the 1960s. By comparison, License to Kill star Timothy Dalton averaged just four belts per movie, while Daniel's predecessor, Pierce Brosnan, knocked back a dirty dozen.

Bond's new booze binge is linked to an increase in alcohol brands paying to place products in the films. In 2012's Skyfall, Daniel sips a Heineken beer in a subtle on-camera advertisement. Now a vodka brand, Belvedere is sponsoring the upcoming movie, Spectre, and gets an on-screen plug.

Says a food and beverage industry analyst, "Bond is the most powerful film franchise on the planet. Belvedere's decision to jump into bed with Bond is a landmark moment for the brand." We'll drink to that!

OUTRAGED FATHER blasts Boston neighbors who ignored Baby

THE INNOCENT

Referred to as "Baby Doe," Bella Bond was given her name back when her grandmother, Patricia Quinn, saw a composite image of her

THE child known as "Baby Doe" never had a chance!

For months, the Boston area was transfixed by the horror of the unidentified infant who was found dead in a trash bag.

It wasn't until grandmother Patricia Quinn saw a composite image of "Little Baby Doe" that the case moved forward.

Patricia thought the sketch looked like her pretty granddaughter Bella, who was missing at the time.

It was four months after her body washed up on the beach in Boston harbor that police identified the tiny victim as two-year-old Bella Bond. Now, say officials, the girl's body was placed in "some kind of" refrigerator after she was killed. Then, a month later, it was tossed out like garbage.

The case broke wide open when a tipster told cops that Bella's mom, Rachelle Bond, 40, admitted that her crazed boyfriend Michael McCarthy "killed her child."

McCarthy, 35, became convinced Bella was demonic and beat her to a pulp.

Bond went into her daughter's room and reportedly saw McCarthy punching Bella because he believed she was possessed, a source says.

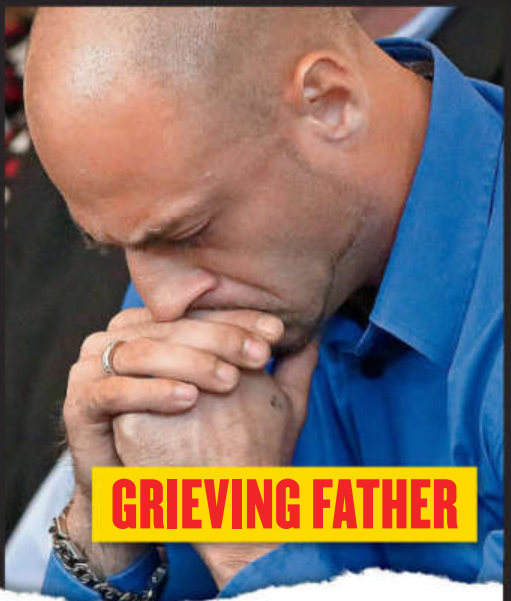

Though the medical examiner has found no signs of internal bleeding or external bruising, investigators are operating on the theory that McCarthy did something to the adorable tyke that left her unable to breathe.

Teary Amoroso, who never met Bella, says, "My poor little angel Bella's life was taken from her by a monster — by a demon. He's the demon," he adds, referring to McCarthy.

"He murdered my daughter, and then said he did it because she was a demon," says Amoroso, who has been in Florida for the last two years.

Bond was ordered held in lieu of a $1 million bond. McCarthy was denied bail.

Amoroso blasts neighbors for failing to stop the sleazy almost-stepdad who called her a "child of Satan."

"The only thing that has me [upset] is the next door neighbors, anybody that lived around her. That's what bothers me."

Amoroso's charges come as detectives continue to probe the claim that the poor toddler was punched in the stomach by her abuser until she died.

"Shame on anyone that lived in that building that didn't start asking questions (about the abuse)," says Amoroso.

loss of life," an official says.

Ruthless Rachelle and her boyfriend were arrested. McCarthy is facing a murder charge. Bond is looking at being charged as an accessory.

Joe Amoroso, Bella's biological father, says he believes Bond had nothing to do with their daughter's death.

"She told me the whole story. She was very emotional [and] sincere through the whole thing, and I believe her."

Amoroso says he left Bond after learning she had been arrested for prostitution.

JOHN LENNON was a gifted musician, an incredible songwriting talent, a wife-beater and, at times, a giant scumbag.

British television just showed a disturbing clip of him performing with The Beatles and mocking the disabled by cruelly distorting his face and making exaggerated movements.

Twitter was on fire over the clip with one of those noting:

"Anybody who's read a bit about The Beatles knows that 'Saint' John Lennon had a cruel 'humor' about disabled people."

And earlier this year, GLOBE told you how the Give Peace A Chance singer was a moody boozier and pothead, who cheated on his first wife Cynthia and often slapped around their son, Julian.

And Cynthia, who died in April, wrote that he once slapped her in the face in a moment of jealousy.

"Dad was a hypocrite," Julian says of his Beatle dad.

Lennon later admitted his violence toward women.

"I was a hitter. I couldn't express myself and I hit. I fought men and hit women," he said.

The truth is that Lennon could be a jerk – or worse. He was a man with great talent, but he wasn't a great man.

Yet, in death, we've elevated him to a god. Big mistake!

Try to remember him for his incredible music – because in the end he was a pathetic excuse for a human being.

KATIE HOLMES & JAMIE FOXX SHACKING UP!

Gotcha! Undercover couple caught getting
TOUCHY-FEELY

AFTER two years of very hush-hush dating, Jamie Foxx and Katie Holmes are taking the next step: living together.

Despite official denials, a source says the Oscar-winning actor, 47, has invited Katie, 36, to shop with him for a home they can share near the Westlake Village, Calif., mansion where he currently lives with his kids and extended family.

While he has long been reluctant to move the relationship forward for fear of upsetting his pal and Katie's ex, Tom Cruise, the source says Jamie "realized he needs to be honest" about his feelings.

Incredibly, Jamie credits Tom with helping him to become a big star by pushing for him to be cast in their 2004 thriller "Collateral." Cruise even considers Jamie to be an honorary uncle to his daughter with Katie, Suri, 9.

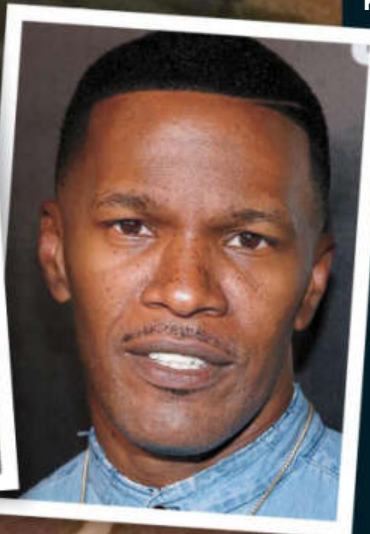

Katie and Jamie have really been taking things slowly. The pair were spotted holding hands and dancing at an event in East Hampton, N.Y., in August 2013, when her reps insisted they were "friends, nothing more."

Then last March, the undercover couple were spotted spending quality time together at his home.

"I can't imagine how Tom will feel about his so-called friend romancing his ex-wife," a source told GLOBE."

JACKIE Collins' death was an assisted suicide!

The 77-year-old best-selling novelist chose to die on her own terms, after keeping her six-year battle with Stage 4 breast cancer a secret from the world, shocked friends believe.

"Jackie went the way she wanted to go. She said goodbye to her daughters, who were with her, laid her head on the pillow, closed her eyes and went to sleep," says a longtime close friend.

"When I heard the news, my first question was, 'Did she assist herself in death?' Because it sounds that way. And it sounds like her."

"I was told, 'You know Jackie did this her way!' Everything was always done by her planning."

Jackie spared kids the agony of watching her die

The sexy scribbler battled Stage 4 cancer for six years, and her own daughters — Tracy, 54, Tiffany, 48, and Rory, 46 — didn't know how serious it was until she told them in May.

"Jackie handled the cancer diagnosis the same way she handled her life — she did it her way. She would never want to put her family through the horror of watching her die in agony," adds another source.

"She told no one about her cancer because she didn't

Sisters Joan and Jackie were "as competitive as gladiators."

The author looked healthy and beautiful until the day she died want to be a burden. She just continued to live her life as she always had ... writing several books, traveling the world and making public appearances until just days before her death.

"She waited until two weeks before she died to tell her sister Joan the cancer was terminal.

"She planned her last days down to the final detail — her 10,000-mile round trip to London to meet Joan for a farewell dinner.

"She allowed photographers to visit her home, her sanctuary, and she gave one last interview, confessing for the first time publicly that she was going to die.

"She appeared healthy. She did not look like the end was near. Then, suddenly, she was gone."

Collins died at home on Sept. 19, two weeks before her 78th birthday. And questions remain.

"Due to the circumstances of her death, there should have been an autopsy," says an insider.

The glamorous author wrote 32 best-selling novels, mostly raunchy, sex-filled romances such as Hollywood Wives — one of eight of her books that became a movie or TV miniseries.

"Looking back, I'm not sorry about anything I did," she said. "I did it my way, as Frank Sinatra would say."

Asked why she kept the truth from her sister, Jackie said, "I'm not sure how strong she is, so I didn't want to burden her with it."

SEX-CRAZY SCRIBE BEDDED BRANDO & HATED SIS JOAN

JACKIE Collins boasted many of the sex scenes in her books came from her own experiences — and so did the jealous rivalries!

"I've seen and done it all!" said Jackie, who went to Hollywood to stay with older sister actress Joan Collins.

"I was a try-anything girl — utterly uncontrollable."

The things she tried included a fling with Marlon Brando when she was just 15!

"Marlon stared straight at my 39-inch chest and said, 'That's a great looking body you have, little girl.'"

Just as passionate was her rivalry with Joan, now 82.

"Their feud erupted in the late 70s, after they turned Jackie's second book, The Stud, into a movie starring Joan, whose sagging career caught fire after the flick!

"Jackie felt her sister should have given her more credit for saving her with The Stud.

"Joan resented the suspicion that she owed much of her success to Jackie.

"The sisters were as competitive as gladiators."

NEW 10-MINUTE PROCEDURE CAN SAVE YOUR VISION

If reading menus, books or tiny numbers has become more difficult in recent years, you probably have presbyopia, an age-related condition that makes it hard to see things close up.

But now there is new hope for people who need reading glasses or extreme surgery to correct the problem — the KAMRA, a small, removable implant that manipulates the amount of light entering the eye.

About the size of your pupil, the implant, similar to a camera lens, weighs less than a grain of salt and is one-tenth the thickness of a human hair. But it works big time — and can improve vision all across the range, from near to far.

“Because we’re only allowing light to come into the small opening of a mini ring, EVERYTHING is focused,” explains Dr. Tom Tooma, medical director and founder of NVISION Eye Centers in Newport Beach, Calif.

A laser is used to create a pocket in the cornea, where the inlay is fitted. From start to finish, the procedure takes less than 10 minutes and is painless. Close vision usually takes two to four weeks to improve.

However, the procedure is completely reversible! While LASIK surgery permanently removes tissue to reshape the cornea and improve how the eye focuses light, the KAMRA implant sits in a pocket sealed by a miniscule bit of tissue that can be easily reopened. A KAMRA inlay is not covered by most insurance plans. Ophthalmologists typically charge up to $5,000 for the procedure, which can help an estimated 122 million Americans.

New Healthy Bacon

+ MARINE scientists have developed a seaweed that packs a bigger health punch than trendy kale! And the best part is, when fried, the red water weed tastes just like bacon! Called dulse, the plant grows off the northern Atlantic and Pacific coasts. And researchers in Oregon have developed a strain that's easier and cheaper to grow than kale. Scientists say it's an “excellent source” of minerals, vitamins and antioxidants that tastes great, too.

Smoking Zaps Teeth

+ SMOKERS are more than twice as likely to lose teeth than people who never puff, according to a report in the Journal of Dental Research. Scientists at the University of Birmingham in the UK and the German Institute of Human Nutrition discovered guys' teeth go up in smoke nearly four times faster when they inhale — while gals shed their fangs 2.5 times quicker. And the more you smoke, the more impact on your mouth. Researchers say the habit causes tartar and gum disease, which result in loose and lost choppers!

OMEGA-3 FATTY ACIDS FIGHT OFF INCURABLE LOU GEHRIG'S DISEASE!

POWERFUL omega-3 fatty acids found in fish oil can save your life by preventing deadly Lou Gehrig's Disease!

A recent Harvard University study suggests a diet full of the substance reduces the risk of getting the nerve disease Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), which killed the New York Yankees baseball legend. Scientists say the acids – found in salmon and other types of fish – cut inflammation while improving oxygen delivery to nerve cells. In a study sampling 1,000 people, 20 percent of participants who ate the most fatty acids slashed their chance of developing ALS by a third!

But there is reason to be cautious, say the researchers. The study only focused on the risk of developing ALS, not treatment. The disease is incurable. But the findings are important, researchers say, because it demonstrates how diet could play a part in triggering ALS, which strikes about 5,000 Americans every year. Future related studies will focus on ALS therapy.

MOM BEAUTY DIGS BOY TOY SEX!

FORMER The West Wing star Allison Janney, 55, is boasting she's having the "best sex of her life" with her boy toy, Philip Joncas, who is 20 years her junior!

A pal says Allison bragged to her about how "Philip makes me feel like a queen, both in and out of the bedroom."

And it shows!

The leggy, 6-foot Allison planted a public smooch on her "perfect match" after she recently won the Best Supporting Actress Emmy for her sitcom Mom – her seventh win to date.

She met Philip, a production coordinator, while working on the indie film The Way, Way Back a couple of years ago.

Allison has never been married but was engaged to actor Richard Jenik, who popped the question during a weekend getaway in San Francisco in May 2004.

At the time, she said, "'I think we are finally going to do it. It will just be so nice to finally get married and take care of my man.'"

But the romance crashed and burned in 2006.

Now, she and Philip aren't making any plans that extend beyond bedtime!

The prime-time beauty confesses, "I'm in my prime sexually right now, and so is he!"

Allison is TV royalty and says lover Philip makes her feel like a queen

"Allison is just enjoying herself with Philip for the moment," says her pal. "This could finally lead to marriage! Who knows?"

But what is never in doubt is that Allison is one red-hot mama!

CHILLING SECRET TV'S JIMMY OLSEN TOOK TO GRAVE!

Jack Larson
died fighting
TO PROVE SUPERMAN WAS MURDERED

SUPERMAN was murdered! That's the secret Jack Larson, who played cub reporter Jimmy Olsen on the hit 1950s TV show The Adventures of Superman, took to his grave.

Jack — who died at age 87 on Sept. 17 at his Brentwood, Calif., home — believed George Reeves, who portrayed the iconic comic-book hero, was murdered on June 16, 1959. However, authorities concluded TV's Man of Steel committed suicide.

The actor was so convinced his friend had been murdered by a hit man that he and Noel Neill, now 94, who played Superman's girlfriend Lois Lane until the show ended in 1958, took part in a mid-1990s bid to reopen the controversial case!

George was found naked in his bedroom, dead of a single gunshot wound. Cops quickly declared he took his own life.

"Jack never believed George killed himself," a Hollywood insider tells GLOBE.

"He said George was happy, about to be married and go off on his honeymoon, and had lined up some feature films for when he returned."

After his iconic role, Jack struggled to find acting jobs. He later turned to writing and producing plays.

However, in the final years of his life, Jack found new fame making cameo appearances in Superman-related TV series and on the big screen.

KATHY BATES REBUILDS BOOBS!

OSCAR winner Kathy Bates is making her body bodacious again after losing both breasts in a battle with cancer!

The American Horror Story star, 67, is set to have reconstructive surgery in New Orleans to replace the boobs docs removed three years ago when she was diagnosed with the deadly disease.

"Looking at myself every day, I'm not seeing what I would like to see," explains Kathy, who also survived ovarian cancer in 2003. "It's scary to go through another operation for cosmetic reasons, but to feel better about myself is important."

Kathy is opting for a reconstruction surgery using skin and tissue from her abdomen to create her new breasts. "It's a two- to three-month recovery, but you get a tummy tuck out of it," she adds.

DOG CHAPMAN'S DAUGHTER BUSTED AS BANK ROBBER!

Troubled girl accused bounty hunter dad of FORCING HER TO HAVE SEX TO PAY HIS DRUG DEBT

TV bounty hunter Duane "Dog" Chapman is secretly pleased that his homeless stepdaughter was arrested for attempting to rob a bank, a friend says.

And one report says Dog's wife Beth ratted out stepdaughter Nicole Gillespie, 35, who was busted for second-degree robbery in Hawaii.

Ironically, Nicole once accused "Dog" of pimping her out to settle a drug debt!

"Dog must be feeling this is kind of payback for the scandal Nicole dragged him through years ago. He must also be relieved that she didn't kill anybody in the attempted heist. He says she's crazy," says an insider.

But publicly, Dog and his wife are saying, "It's always difficult when someone you knew as a child, grows up and chooses a life of crime."

"That is the case with Nicole, who has been accused

A bank's security camera (above) filmed Dog's daughter Nicole during a brazen heist. She was arrested after the video aired on TV.

of robbing the Territorial Savings Bank.

"We have not seen 'Nickie' in over 10 years. Watching her on CrimeStoppers left us all shocked and heartbroken."

But he can't be as shocked as in 2007, when wayward Nicole, daughter of his ex Tawny Marie Chapman, accused him of using her to get him crack and prostitutes — a charge he denied.

"I was visiting Dog in Kona and he arranged for a friend of his, who I knew was one of his crack dealers, to drive me back to the airport," she said.

"Instead, the guy pulled into the Kona Seaside Hotel. When I asked what he was doing, he said, 'I paid Dog and now you're going to pay me!'"

OUTRAGE AS 'DOOL' DUMPS KASSIE!

SOAP queen Kassie DePaiva has been fired from Days of Our Lives, sparking a firestorm as livid fans threaten to boycott the show and petition to bring her back!

DePaiva came on the hit daytime drama last year, reviving bad girl character Eve Donovan. Kassie, 54, previously portrayed Blair Cramer on One Life to Live until the show went off in 2013.

Kassie's ouster "is absolutely ridiculous," says a ticked off "DOOL" fan. "We LOVE her! We want her back and we're not going to give up pressuring the show until she returns."

A petition demanding her return has been launched on Facebook, but angry fans aren't stopping there.

Says another viewer, "They either bring her back or we stop watching the show!"

The new lovers sunbathe at O'Donnell's Florida mansion

Rosie and Tatum

THE BODY DOESN'T LIE

O'Donnell 'has doubts' about new lesbian love — body language expert

TROUBLE IN PARADISE FOR ROSIE AND TATUM!

HOLLYWOOD heavy-weight Rosie O'Donnell's gay romance with actress Tatum O'Neal is doomed, a renowned body language expert tells GLOBE.

And Tatum should run, not walk, away because Rosie has a history of terribly troubled relationships! Just days after these photos were snapped at the former "View" host's $5 million Florida mansion, Rosie's estranged wife Michelle Rounds attempted suicide at a New York area hotel amid a nasty divorce and custody fight.

But in GLOBE's exclusive pictures, former child star Tatum desperately tried to attract her indifferent lover's attention, says expert Susan Constantine, author of The Complete Idiot's Guide to Reading Body Language.

Says Constantine, "You can see Rosie is not fully engaged. She's thinking, 'I'm not sure' about Tatum. On the other hand Tatum is doing everything she can to get Rosie's attention, prancing around like a peacock. But Rosie is not biting at the hook" despite their matching bathing suits.

Rosie, 53, seems guarded and disengaged because "her face is flat and you don't see her smiling or making any gestures," Constantine told GLOBE. Her behavior indicates "Rosie is not as into Tatum as Tatum is into Rosie."

As the two relaxed on the reclining beach chairs, Constantine notes Rosie's legs were crossed away from the 51-year old Paper Moon Oscar winner — a clear indication she's not obsessing over the former wife of tennis great John McEnroe, who is said to be furious over the love affair.

"If Rosie's leg was crossed in Tatum's direction that would tell me she's interested," Constantine explains. "But she has her legs crossed in the opposite direction from Tatum, and that's telling me she is not connecting with her."

"Tatum, on the other hand, is displaying her entire body and Rosie is not paying much attention which tells me Tatum is trying to get into a romantic relationship and Rosie has doubts."

Still, Tatum is calling the TV queen "my wife," but Rosie's marriage to troubled Michelle Rounds is far from over.

YOGI BERRA DIED OF BROKEN HEART!

Baseball legend never got over losing his wife

BASEBALL superstar Yogi Berra never recovered from the crushing heartbreak of his wife Carmen's death last year.

Now friends are saying the lovable 90-year-old Hall of Famer died of a broken heart since he went downhill after Carmen, his wife of 65 years, suffered a fatal stroke in March of last year!

"She meant the world to him," says

Yogi and Carmen on their wedding day and in his playing heyday one insider. "Baseball always came a distant second. He was never the same after she died. It just crushed his spirit."

The All-Star New York Yankees catcher, whose real name was Lawrence Peter Berra, met his soulmate two years after the end of World War II, where he saw action on a Navy rocket boat during the D-Day landings.

But the combat vet was as nervous as a kid when he met Carmen, who served him lunch at a St. Louis restaurant.

"I could hardly believe my luck, that Carmen liked me as much as I liked her," said the legend, who went on to win pennants managing the Yankees and the New York Mets.

He and Carmen had three children and 11 grandchildren. They shared his magical moments in baseball and endured family heartbreak together — the April 1989 drug arrest of their son, Dale. Eventually, he did three years in an intervention program and all charges were dismissed.

"Carmen was Yogi's rock," the insider says. "She was there for the good times and the bad. And when she died, he just couldn't do it anymore."

DÉJÀ VU ALL OVER AGAIN!

Yogi Berra was as famous for butchering the English language as he was for playing baseball. His fractured observations became known as "Yogisms" — but he denied saying some of the stuff attributed to him, noting: "I really didn't say everything I said." Here's more of his wit and wisdom:

- "It ain't over 'til it's over."
- "No one goes there anymore. It's too crowded."
- "I'm not going to buy my kids an encyclopedia. Let them walk to school like I did."

'The future ain't what it used to be'

- "A nickel ain't worth a dime anymore."
- "When you come to a fork in the road, take it."
- "It's déjà vu all over again."
- "Always go to other people's funerals. Otherwise, they won't come to yours."
- "Never answer an anonymous letter."
- "You can observe a lot by watching."
- "Baseball is 90 percent mental. The other half is physical."
- "It ain't the heat, it's the humidity."

JAMIE LEE COMEBACK IS A REAL SCREAM!

JAMIE LEE CURTIS became Hollywood's Scream Queen more than 35 years ago, starring in hit movies like Halloween and The Fog — but she quit horror fests to avoid being typecast.

Now Jamie is B-A-C-K — headlining FOX's new series, Scream Queens!

The show, which premiered Sept. 22 and co-stars Emma Roberts, is set in a university sorority, and the murder mayhem involves a blend of terror, mystery — and comedy!

Facing a battle for ratings with ABC's The Muppets, Jamie is thrilled with her killer role as Dean Cathy Munsch. "I am so grateful to have this at age 56," says the actress who's written 10 children's books.

"I've done advertising and some REALLY terrible movies and TV shows just to live my life. I never saw this coming."

The role also allows her to pay homage to her mother, Janet Leigh, whose iconic death scene in Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho is a classic spine-chiller.

But Curtis has a shocking secret.

The actress, wed to actor-director Christopher Guest for 30 years and mother of Annie, 28, and Thomas, 19, is not a fan of horror!

"It gave me my career," she admits. "But I don't like scary things. Life is scary enough."

Gutsy Beck's near-death and recovery is told in Everest starring Josh Brolin (right)

REEL LIFE

I DEFEATED DEATH IN MT. EVEREST MIRACLE!

American doc reveals the nightmare behind blockbuster new movie

FROSTBITTEN, blinded, buried in snow and barely breathing, Beck Weathers was discovered by rescuers after a blizzard on Mt. Everest.

But, amazingly, they left him to die — because they figured he was too far gone to be saved! However, the doctor from Texas — whose ordeal is portrayed by Josh Brolin in the hit movie Everest — wasn't ready to give in and fought back from the dead.

"I vaguely remember dying," says Beck. "The cold anesthetized me and I gradually faded away."

"The following day, as the sun descended towards the horizon, I came back from the dead and opened my eyes."

"That is a mystery and a miracle which I still don't understand. ... I knew with absolute clarity that if I did not stand up, I would die there. I struggled to my feet, almost completely blind."

Beck realized he was in a race against time and numbing cold. "Each time I fell — blam! — I got up and started again," he recalls.

Another search party arrived and found Beck looking like he'd been dipped in tar, his fingers, arms and face ravaged by frostbite.

Still alive after three days with no food, he was finally evacuated by helicopter.

In Dallas, Beck had 11 operations on his hands and face. But he lost both hands. He says the ordeal brought him much closer to his wife, Peaches, and he would do it all again "even if I knew everything that was going to happen. I traded my hands for my family and my future."

Beck, now 68, and Josh at the film's premiere

CHRISTIE COOLS ON MINI-MELLENCAMP!

5-foot-8 rocker didn't measure up

ALMOST as quickly as it started, Christie Brinkley and John Mellencamp are on the rocks, GLOBE has learned!

Sources say several factors are working against the 5-foot-9 former supermodel, 61, and Meg Ryan's former rocker squeeze, 63.

"She's reconsidering this relationship," a friend of Christie says. "She already had one singer with short-guy issues, and now she's repeating the pattern. Christie loves John's kind ways, but there are other areas where they really don't see eye to eye, and height is one of them."

He's not on her level

Christie, who is 5-foot-5 Billy Joel's ex wife, admitted to a friend she had a "crush" on 5-foot-8 John. She said it was her goal to woo him away from his on-again, off-again girlfriend Meg.

"That relationship with John and Meg wasn't working," Christie told the friend. "I thought he'd be better off with me because I'm used to the world of rock and roll, and I'm much more easy-going than the girls he dated before."

Christie has been married four times and has three kids.

Meanwhile, John tells a pal: "Brinks is a lot of fun, but I'd

MADONNA ORDERS EMPLOYEE TO KISS HER FOOT!

DEMANDING diva Madonna really keeps her employees on their toes!

When one backup dancer arrived a few minutes late to rehearse for her 64-show Rebel Heart world tour, insiders say Her Madgesty, 57, demanded: "You have to kiss my foot!"

Not sure whether the Material Girl was joking, the tardy hoofer took no chances.

He puckered up, dropped to his knees and submitted to her will.

"Madonna's such a perfectionist," says a source. "She acts like the Queen and insists on being treated that way."

"It's her way or the highway. And anyone who signs up to work with her knows what they're getting into." Whatta heel!

have a hard time living in the city. I hate the fast-paced life."

"There are a lot of differences between the two," says Christie's pal. "Christie's sophisticated and she's a world-traveler. John is a hometown boy who likes Indiana. He's not even fond of touring anymore."

The pal adds: "Christie said she's starting to feel awkward around him because he's quite a bit shorter than she is. She can't wear her heels around him, and she certainly can't wear heels in the woods."

THE SKINNY ON CLINT!

B-MOVIE beefcake Clint Eastwood tries to build some Hollywood muscle with a 1959 publicity shot outside his L.A. home. And it worked! Just three years later, he landed the role of Rowdy Yates on TV's Rawhide and became a heavyweight actor with iconic tough-guy performances in spaghetti westerns and Dirty Harry films. Now, his looks are gone, but he's moved behind the camera as one of Tinseltown's most successful directors.
